erty. I was present at one of these entertain-ments, where the most beautiful woman out of three hundred was selected to place a crown of laurels on the white head of the American phi-losopher, and two kisses upon his cheeks."

A few more words, and I have finished. The itude for the freedom we have received, and of preserving intact the noble institutions we have inherited from our fathers, should form one of the great considerations of this occasion. We have reviewed the struggles of the Revolution, its success, the peaceful establishment of the Constitution, and we have traced our country enveloped in a blaze of glory, in her onward march through three quarters of a century, challenge our affections?

"Breathes there the man with soul so dead, Who never to himself hath said, This is my own, my native land?"

What shall I say then of that foul spirit of disunion that has arisen in our land and directed its malignant attack against the fair proportions of the Constitution? Was it for this that the men of '76 went through the ordeal of suffering, sacrifies and blood? Was it for this they triumphed? Does any man feel himself op-pressed by the action of this Government in his person, in his liberty, or in his property? Where under the face of heaven is there a government equal to our own in justice and in mildness? How long then are our feelings to be outragedour loyalty despised—our power set at defi-ance? I do not speak the language of apprehension. Far from it. I fear not! I do not shrink from the crisis; but, in common with you and all right-minded men, I feel indignant that the downfall of this Government should be admitted to be possible. Is it to be supposed that this Government, so powerful abroad, so respected by foreign nations and so terrible in arms, is too weak and imbecile within to protect herself from her own members? Is it to be supposed that possessing the power she will not exercise it? But grant that any excious conspiracy, and the legislature of a State or States should tear down the stars and stripes and trample on the Constitution. What then? I appeal to the people. They at least would be true to themselves. They would arise in their natural sovereignty, and with a voice that would shake the poles they could say, It shall not be so-" the Union, the Union, it shall be preserved." Then be it so. Let disunion forever after, in shame and in disgrace, hide its hideous head. Let no foul breath after that dare to whisper the accursed word secession. Let the Union stand in all its beauty and integrity. I am speaking to you about the Union as contemplated by Washington and his compeers; the whole Union and nothing but the Union; admitting no nullification, no secession, no disunion: destined as it is to preserve the liberties, to develop the resources, and secure the happiness of this great nation; encircling all the members by a bond of love, making them conscious at the same time of her power to con-strain them to their duty. Let us on this day renew our vows of allegiance to that Union. Let us pledge life, fortune, and sacred honor in that we owe her a mere secondary allegiance, let us, in the true spirit of loyalty, bestow upon her our first, highest, best, and noblest affections. Let us consecrate to her the veneration of our youth, the protection of our manhood, and the prayers and blessings of our age.

Having discharged these sacred duties, enter now upon the festivities of this day—with joyous hearts and honest consciences be happy—let your banners float and your music thrill—let your hearts rejoice. Take with you to your homes the lessons of this day, though feebly pronounced; repeat them to your children and your neighbors—for so long as the popular sen-timent is right, so long, and so long only, is the

AMERICAN TELEGRAPH

WASHINGTON :

THURSDAY AFTERNOON, JULY 10.

THE ORATION OF RICHARD H. CLARK, esq., reader of our paper.

day last, in which a series of questions were efforts have resulted in the arrest at Baltimore submitted to Mr. Stuart, the Secretary of the of the principal party who forged the coin, and and we have indeed learned that a very able in society." article has been presented to one of the journals of this city in vindication of the persons assailed in these interrogatories. That article has not yet been given to the public, however; and as a gentleman now absent from the country has been freely named, we shall briefly notice the queries affecting him. The information upon which we rely has been received from a very responsible person, who is himself interested in the matter.

The first and second questions, relating to the number of clerks employed on the census, can be answered by many of the children in our streets. That there should be an increase of clerks in the census office over the number called for in 1840 is so manifest, that an argument or explanation can hardly be required. Whoever has read Mr. Webster's late oration, or that portion of it relating to the statistics of the country, must feel that he is fully informed. Six or eight times as many questions were propounded in taking the late census ; information six, eight, or ten times as minute has been obtained; and the elaborating and digesting of it will prove forty times as advantageous to the country.

Questions three to nine relate to houses and rents. We are authorized to say that the main building of the Home Department was not adequate to the uses of the Census office; that from necessity the clerks of this office were scattered about the city at inconvenient distances; that the gentleman who had purchased the "Steiger House," ascertaining that the ferent political parties-John W. Maury, Presi- ware manufactories in that neighborhood. A with the noble character of an apostle of lib- the Government, and agreed upon a rate less than was charged for them; that the owner knows the rent to be high, but would not rent a house for a limited season and for such a use without a very high rent; and, finally, that Mr. Kennedy has nothing whatever to do with it. Respecting corresponding obligations on our part, of grat- the other houses spoken of, we are not informed, but believe the matter is too small to merit serious attention.

The tenth, eleventh, and twelfth questions relate to Mr. Kennedy's "European tour." Some facts may be stated that will set this matter at rest. So perfect is the method pursued in taking the census of 1850, and arranging the information comprised, that every foreign Govwaxing strong in wealth and in power. Does she not stand forth at this moment beautiful and resplendent to our view? Does she not has obtained from Mr. Kennedy all his forms in detail, which have been sent to them with minute instructions. These representatives have also given to Mr. K. such information as they could respecting such operations in their own countries. But it was believed by our Government, and concurred in by the most enlightened men conversant with the subject, that out of the present census labors should grow. as a valuable auxiliary to the Departments, a Bureau of Statistics; and that to perfect our census returns, and to commence aright the duties of this important bureau, the examination of the most approved institutions of the kind in Europe would prove of incalculable advantage. Mr. Kennedy's fitness for such a mission no one will doubt; for the schedules of the Census office are a proud monument of his clear and sound judgment and skillful execu-and by that circumstance alone have we been induced to offer this statement.

Our correspondent has no doubt his own convictions, opinions and motives in these matters, isting government should prove derelict in its duty—a supposition which I make merely for the sake of the argument—and suppose the leaders of faction should succeed in their atroleaders of factions of the same should succeed in their atroleaders of factions of the same should should succeed in their atroleaders of factions of the same should shoul and as we do not believe falsehood or injustice opened our columns to him and others; but for all that we do not care the shadow of a penny. We shall act fairly between all parties desirous of being heard, and shall hence be always above the power of the arrogant upstarts who would stifle the press, and cause it to bow before the footstool of power and patronage.

THE BATTERIES OPENED .- We seriously of fended some very great and important personages; and one gentleman blustered terribly on the Avenue yesterday, and hinted strongly at making a spectacle of us! This is just what we expected. If we thought official leaches and their parasites, the "codfish aristocracy," were for us, we should turn against ourselves. We publish a paper for the people-for the masses of republican American citizens, who are neither the stipendiaries nor todies of evanescent greatness; and we do not care a dime for the favor of any man who favors hugger-mugger jugglery her defence. Repudiating the absurd notion in or out of office. "Fair and aboveboard," and "defiance to all pirates," are our mottoes; and we want nothing to do with the lubbers who do not assent to them.

> MONUMENT WHEAT .- Ceres must have done her best when she produced this grain. Col. Charles R. Belt, near Tenalleytown, in Montgomery county, Maryland, has presented to us some very beautiful specimens of it. The straw is immense, and the beard in proportion; but the grains are fine, white, and large beyond proportion. This wheat was introduced into our country accidentally, by a few grains of it being found with the straw in the box in which Greenough's statue of Washington was brought from Italy a few years ago. It has ever since been cultivated simply to multiply the seed; and we are told that four dollars a bushel can this summer be readily obtained for it. What

COUNTERFEITING GOLD COIN .- The Pennsylwhich will be found in our columns to-day, is vanian of yesterday says: "Mr. Z. Collins Lee, would give us great advantage in case of diffichaste, sensible, and patriotic, and will be esq. the United States Attorney of Maryland, culties. We have a right to do it, and no power perused with hearty approbation by every has been in our city co-operating with John W. Ashmead, esq., the United States District Attorney, in the discovery and punishment of THE CATECHISM OF "COMMENTATOR." - A extensive counterfeiters of the gold coin of the communication appeared in our paper of Mon- United States; and we understand that their Interior. We could have answered some of whose instruments and dies were found in this these questions, had we conceived it to be our city. The accused has been brought on for duty to do so; but we reasonably thought some trial. Much interest is felt in the matter, for centleman in the interest and confidence of the the affair is said to involve many others who parties implicated would perform that duty, have heretofore occupied respectable positions

MR. WEBSTER .- Our readers are probably aware that Mr. Secretary Webster has for several summers past been subject to a kind of painful influenza, which has threatened to seriously injure him; and we are informed that his contemplated visit to the North will be taken chiefly for the improvement of his health. He will probably leave on Monday of next Congress in the fourth (Danville) district, his fitted by his tour.

A REFRESHING SIGHT .- Mr. J. Pettibone this norning presented to us a piece of ice of perfect purity and solidity, about fifteen inches cubic measure, and consequently containing about three thousand three hundred and seventyfive cubic inches! It froze somewhere about fifteen miles from Boston half a year ago, and was sent to this city by the New England Ice Company, and kept itself perfectly cool until exposed to our southern sun to-day, when it began to show a disposition to "melt, thew, and resolve itself into a dew." Allowing ten cubic inches to the julep, this lump would have made three hundred and thirty-seven juleps; and allowing three juleps to make a man tipsey, these would have befooled one hundred and twelve men. But we are making a better use of it. THE CUNNING YANKERS !- The English man ufacturers pay a high compliment to the skill and aptness of the Yankee nation. Mr. Greeley says he was invited by an English friend to visit Census Bureau could here concentrate its forces, him at his house, in the neighborhood of Biroffered to rent it for this use; that the rate of mingham, holding out as an inducement the rent was determined by two gentlemen of dif- opportunity of visiting the great Iron and Harddent of the Bank of the Metropolis, and Wm. A. moment afterward he recollected himself, and Bradley, Postmaster of Washington; that these said, "I am not quite sure that I could procure gentlemen made a careful examination of the you admittance to them, because the rule has Winder, Corcoran, and other property rented to been that Americans were not to be admitted.

MORTALITY AT ATHENS, ILL.—This town has count of the origin of the disease: "Mr. Salt- or bluster the rain has begun to fall in a zenstein, a merchant there, received one or two straightendicular descent. If we had a Pegasus boxes of goods from Europe. They had been to ride, how we would go it under the inspiraexpected for some time, and five persons were tion of this shower. But "Come, expressive present when they were opened. Every one of those persons took sick and died. The disease soon spread among those who attended upon them, and among others. In one family six persons died. A complete panic ensued; and we are told that more than half the people are absent from town."

PREPAY YOUR NEWSPAPERS .- The postmasters will not forward them if you do not, except to regular subscribers, who prepay by the quarter quired before it, we are led to conjecture that a at the office where they receive them.

PLEASANT BOARDING .- Persons wishing to suit themselves will do well to observe the advertisement of Mrs. Thompson, whose house offers every desirable inducement.

ANOTHER RAILBOAD ACCIDENT .- The Baltimore Sun of this morning says, we learn by letter from Weaverton, Md., that an Irishman, named Dennis McGormack, was run over and killed by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad cars on the night of the 7th inst., at Sandy Hook, whilst on his way to New York, where he had a wife and three children living. He had on his person a small amount of money, (about $38.) His wife can secure his money and effects by writing to J. A. Miller, near Weaverton, Md.

[Communicated.]

MESSRS. EDITORS: Captain Easby has the reputation of being a gentleman of approved good taste and judgment, but both appear to have taken leave of him in his plan for painting the Treasury building.

He seems to have started with the laudable ntention of converting the sombre edifice into a marble-like palace, and of imparting to the beautiful colonnade the lightness and grace which should characterize such a design. This latter purpose he has succeeded in carrying out, but not without seriously offending the eye and evincing a total disregard of all rules, by painting the front of the main building, between the pilasters, of a dingy pink, lilac, or whitish brown; a color, in short, not to be described, and resembling no stone on the earth or "in the waters under the earth." The iron railings too, which surmount the dirty granite, are painted glaringly white, whereby all relief or contrast with the columns is denied, and the iron made to lose its character and identity.

If the motley and whimsical are to prevail in this building, I would suggest to the worthy Commissioner the propriety of giving the architrave a coat of Prussian blue, of painting the basement Turkey-red, and of touching up the lamp-posts with chrome yellow.

PRECAUTIONARY !- Our respected neighbor of the Southern Press very prominently and very gravely quotes the following from the Green ville (S. C.) Mountaineer :

"Should South Carolina secede from the Union, as present appearances clearly indicate, and the General Government resort to force, a United States army, in the Fort, on Sullivan's Island, might cause some trouble, although we believe Charleston alone could capture it. We heard it suggested, a short time ago, by one o the most distinguished men of our State, and this summer be readily obtained for it. What quantity Col. Belt has cultivated we do not know; but it suffers no impairment on his lands.

What the most distinguished men of our state, and one opposed to secession, that if we did secede, we should, as one of the preparatory steps, begin building a fort alongside of Fort Moultrie, so as to command it. The suggestion we think a good one, and worthy of consideration. A fort of palmetto logs could be easily built, which dare interfere to prevent it. Certainly not, and we should hold it very naughty in any power to make the rash attempt. But we trust the United States army may not cause you "some trouble;" for you cause yourselves enough in all conscience.

The gentleman who left his shoes a few nights ago upon the premises at the corner of Ninth and F streets can have them returned to him by applying to Capt. Goddard. Should he desire to repeat his former visit he will be welcomed by another gentleman of the big-dog kind, Bow-wow!

ST. LOUIS CHURCH, (Roman Catholic,) at Buffalo, has been formally excommunicated in a pastoral letter from Bishop Timon, read in all the churches of the diocese.

KENTUCKY .- Hon. George A. Caldwell, Dem. has withdrawn from the field as a candidate for week, and we trust may return greatly bene- health being precarious. Major Ward is the Whig candidate.

GOV. UJHAZY was expected to arrive in New York yesterday or to-day, on his way to Lon-"He leaves his friends and family at the colony of New-Buda, where they lead a laborious but not unhappy life as independent American farmers."

GREEN CORN .- We understand that this article has already been plucked from some of the gardens on the sunny side of the Heights of Georgetown.

CANAL STEAMER .- The Lockport (N. Y.) Daily Courier of the 5th inst. says a boat propelled by steam passed through that place yesterday, bound west. She moved at the rate of about six miles an hour, and created no greater swell than that caused by an ordinary "liner.'

SENATOR KING .- A telegraphic despatch from this city on the 8th instant says:

"Hon. William R. King, of Alabama, has written a letter, declaring himself decidedly opposed to the leading compromise of the last session of Congress. The admission of Califor-nia into the Union he pronounces an act of injustice, and says that no man should have felt more indignant than he did at this partial and unjust legislation. The bill abolishing slavery under certain circumstances in the District of Columbia, he says, he could not have given his sanction to under any circumstances, and he takes ground that he should feel it a to vote for the repeal of the bounden duty emancipation clause whenever proposed. He declares that he would again, as he did at the last Congress, vote for the repeal of the Mexi-can law prohibiting slavery in Utah and New Mexico. He also repudiates all connexion with the Union party."
